Economic Information and Introduction of Member Countries

An overview of Iran and other countries' economic and trade situation with SCO, ECO, BRICS member countries.

Comparison of Iran and other member countries Trade

In terms of value, the highest potential for Iran's non-oil exports belongs to China. This figure is about 3.29 million dollars.

The lowest value of Iran's non-oil export potential in terms of value belongs to Tajikistan $ 60.5 million.

India with $ 1232 million and Russia with $ 6.910 million are second and third, respectively, after China.

The total amount of realized non-oil exports of Iran to these countries is 8267 million dollars, with the largest amount belonging to India.

About 24% of this figure belongs to India.

After India, the highest amount of realized non-oil exports of Iran belongs to China (about 30% of the total amount of realized exports).

lowest real non-oil exports belongs to Mongolia; So Iran has not made any export to this country during these years. Despite their cultural and geographical affinities, the two countries have not yet begun formal political relations with each other, and this has prevented the establishment of significant economic relations between the two countries.

Make good use of your export capacity In the Intra-Group Trade Survey, the total value of non-oil intra-group exports of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization in the period 2003-2007 averaged about $ 26 billion per year.

The average non-oil exports of China and Tajikistan to the organization during this period were $ 39 billion and $ 159 million per year respectively; China has the highest share of 51.5 percent and Tajikistan has the lowest share of intragroup exports with a very small share of 0.2 percent.

Also, the total value of non-oil imports within the group of member countries in the years under review is on average about $ 72 billion per year.

China and Mongolia had the highest (31.8%) and lowest (0.7%) shares in terms of the value of non-oil imports within the SCO during 2003-2007, respectively.

It should be noted that Iran ranks Fifth after Kazakhstan in terms of non-oil exports and imports within the organization in the period 2003-2007- with a share of 2.2 percent, respectively.

Iran has the greatest non-oil export potential with China.

India is followed by India, Russia, Pakistan, Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan, Mongolia, Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan, respectively, but part of Iran's non-oil export potential has been realized and part remains unused.

In the case of Mongolia, the full potential for non-oil exports remains untapped, indicating that Iran has had no exports with the country. Most of Iran's import potential, like its export potential, belongs to China.

Russia, India, Kazakhstan, Pakistan, Uzbekistan, Mongolia, Tajikistan and Kyrgyzstan are next.

The share of realized non-oil imports in the total potential of Iran's non-oil imports from each country shows that the countries of Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan are at the top with 100%.

In other words, Iran has imported more than its non-oil import potential from these three countries and has fully used its non-oil import capacity.

Procedures for developing foreign trade with 32 member countries:

One of the ways to develop foreign trade of any country is to accurately identify the economic-trade potentials of major trading partners and ways to bring the volume and composition of foreign trade, including exports and imports to the desired level.

According to the findings of a study, the degree of similarity of non-oil exports and imports between Iran and SCO, ECO, BRICS members and Iran Neighbor countries is very low, and this issue should be considered in order to take advantage of its presence in this organization.

For introverted developing countries with relatively closed economies, such as Iran, economic integration, such as the Shanghai Cooperation Organization, is a primary testing ground for international competition and is very important.

One of the SCO, ECO, BRICS and Iran Neighboring Countries opportunities can be in the field of Banking.

Banking cooperation and the establishment of a joint banking council between the 32 states are among the measures taken by the Shanghai Cooperation Organization.

The purpose of forming a joint Banking Council is to facilitate the provision of capital required for the implementation of joint projects of the organization.

One of the consequences of membership in the Shanghai Cooperation Organization, like other regional cooperation organizations, is that it can provide consumers with goods and services at competitive prices and higher quality, and on the other hand, producers in each country will have access to the market on a larger scale.

This way they will be able to enjoy the benefits of scale.

With the membership of a large number of countries in the World Trade Organization (WTO), regional trade and economic cooperation between neighbors is still important.

Statistics on 70% of trade between countries in a region show that it is still important for all governments to acquire and maintain regional markets, so the first important point is that today the share of regional trade is based on the conclusion of over 600 international agreements in the form of Multilateral and bilateral agreements, preferential agreements, etc., of the total world trade, which amounts to 30 trillion dollars, is estimated at about 51%, which shows the importance of these regional agreements and economic alliances with exporting and importing countries.

Iran's neighboring countries have land borders: Pakistan, Afghanistan, Republic of Azerbaijan, Armenia, Turkey, Turkmenistan, Iraq

Iran's neighboring countries have a water border:

Republic of Azerbaijan, Russia, Kazakhstan, Pakistan, Turkmenistan, Iraq, UAE, Bahrain, Saudi Arabia, Oman, Qatar, Kuwait.

IRANSCOEX is a market as large as half the world's population.
